On the state level...

All not-for-profit applicants must now pre-qualify on the NYS Grants Reform website at grantsreform.ny.gov/grantees in order to apply for certain New York State grant solicitations. Potential not-for-profit applicants are strongly encouraged to begin the process of registering and pre-qualifying immediately as this is a lengthy process.

NYS Department of Health

The New York State Department of Health is seeking applications for the HIV, STD, HCV Prevention and Related Services for Women with a Focus on Communities of Color grant program. The purpose of this funding is to identify service providers to develop and/or enhance comprehensive HIV/STD/HCV programs through the implementation of proven high-impact prevention strategies and innovative interventions for HIV positive and high-risk negative women, with a focus on communities of color. The overall goal of this program is to prevent new infections, increase testing and screening services, increase the number of women who know their HIV/STD/HCV status, identify infected individuals to ensure access to early, high-quality medical care and prevention services, increase access to comprehensive sexual and reproductive health information and risk-reduction services, facilitate access to prevention services, including pre-exposure prophylaxis linkage and support services and facilitate access to essential supportive services.

- Eligibility: Nonprofit organizations and Article 28-licensed facilities are eligible to apply.
- Funding: Approximately $4,015,922 will fund between 15 and 30 grants across New York State.
- Deadline: May 4, 2016

National Institutes of Health

The National Institutes of Health (NIH) are now accepting applications for the Innovative Molecular Analysis Technology Development for Cancer Research and Clinical Care program. This program encourages Small Business Innovation Research grant applications from small business concerns proposing research for commercial development of novel cancer-relevant technologies. The proposed research projects are expected to focus on the development of highly innovative technologies that improve molecular and/or cellular analysis of cancer with a significant likelihood for either overcoming persistent challenges or obstacles or opening entirely new fields for cancer research or clinical care. Applications should specify milestones relevant to both the development and commercialization of these technologies.

- Eligibility: Only small business concerns, as defined by NIH, are eligible to apply.
- Funding: Grants of up to $150,000 will be awarded for Phase I projects. The number of awards is contingent upon NIH appropriations and the submission of a sufficient number of meritorious applications.
- Deadline: May 27, 2016

US Department of Justice

The United States Department of Justice is seeking applications for the Comprehensive School Safety Initiative. This program will fund rigorous research to produce practical knowledge that can improve the safety of schools and students. The initiative is focused on K-12 public schools and charter schools and is concerned with all forms of interpersonal violence that occur on school property during or outside of school hours, on the way to and from school or school-sponsored events, on school-sponsored modes of transport or during school-sponsored events. Interpersonal violence includes both minors and adults who perpetrate violence, are victims of violence or are witness to violence. Funding is available in four categories: Developing Knowledge About What Works to Make Schools Safe, Causes and Consequences of School Violence, Shorter Term Studies on School Safety and Longitudinal Studies of School Safety. Applicants are strongly encouraged to review previously funded projects.

- Eligibility: States, local governments, federally recognized Indian tribal governments that perform law enforcement functions, nonprofit and for-profit organizations, institutions of higher learning and certain qualified individuals are eligible to apply.
- Funding: Funding varies by category: Grants ranging from $1 million to $5 million will be awarded to qualified Developing Knowledge About What Works to Make Schools Safe applicants, grants ranging from $200,000 to $1 million will be awarded to qualified Causes and Consequences of School Violence applicants, grants ranging from $200,000 to $700,000 will be awarded to qualified Shorter Term Studies on School Safety applicants and grants of up to $5 million will be awarded to qualified Longitudinal Studies of School Safety applicants.

Farm Aid

Farm Aid is accepting applications for their grant program. Farm Aid provides grants within three program areas: Helping Farmers Thrive, Taking Action to Change the System and Growing the Good Food Movement. Helping Farmers Thrive grants fund organizations that provide farmers with tools and resources to get started on the land, access new markets, transition to one or more sustainable farming practices, produce renewable fuels and stay on the land in the face of financial crisis and natural disasters. Taking Action to Change the System grants fund organizations that promote fair farm policies and grassroots organizing campaigns to defend and bolster family farm agriculture and promote their interests on a local, regional or national level. Growing the Good Food Movement grants fund organizations that are creating programs that build local regional food systems, connecting farmers directly to consumers and creating new markets for family farmers.

- Eligibility: Nonprofit organizations are eligible to apply.
- Funding: Awards generally fall in the range of $3,000 to $10,000.
- Deadline: Letters of Inquiry are due May 1, 2016.

The Retirement Research Foundation

The Retirement Research Foundation (RRF) is now accepting applications for their Responsive Grants program, which are meant to fund projects that have a regional or national impact for older Americans. Advocacy grants will fund projects that advance policy issues of critical importance to our nation's seniors (such as economic security, health care and housing,) use clearly focused and strategic efforts to address systemic problems, and forge partnerships with organizations to achieve better use of resources and to share knowledge. Professional Education and Training grants will fund projects that increase the knowledge and skills of professionals and paraprofessionals who serve older adults and expand the capacity and number of professionals and paraprofessionals prepared to meet the growing demands of an aging population. Research grants will fund projects that seek causes and solutions to significant problems facing older adults through the support of applied and policy research for which federal funding is not available.

- Eligibility: Organizations that are tax exempt under Section 501(c)(3) of the Internal Revenue Code; OR nonprofit organizations that are not required to have a 501(c)(3) designation, such as state-funded universities, are eligible to apply.
  - Funding: The Retirement Research Foundation (RRF) does not make any suggestions regarding proposal budgets. Applicants are encouraged to develop realistic budgets that include all of the expenses needed to effectively implement the project. Visit RRF's website at rrf.org/about-rrf/grant-awards to review the past three years of grant awards.
