

Progress in Western New York

The US District Court in Western New York, which includes Chemung, Schuyler, Steuben and Yates counties, struck down the following three provisions of the SAFE Act:

- The seven-round limit has been rejected. Ten-round limits are now permissible.
- All provisions relating to the term “muzzle break” have been struck, as the term has been designated “too vague” having no accepted meaning.
- The terminology “version” of an automatic weapon was struck. The court held that an ordinary person would not be able to make a clear judgment on what constituted a version of an automatic weapon.

Disclaimer: This information and the SAFE Act are pending further legal action.

Dear Governor,

It's been over a year since the SAFE Act was forced through the legislature under the cover of darkness and without public input. Since then, multiple rallies have been held at the Capitol and around the state, with the largest of these drawing more than 10,000 people. An overwhelming majority of counties in New York have passed resolutions opposing the SAFE Act, and many sheriffs, county clerks, and others have voiced their opposition as well.

The SAFE Act does not keep guns out of the hands of criminals. Instead, it infringes upon the rights of law-abiding citizens who seek to protect their families and their homes.

I support Assemblyman Phil Palmesano who is co-sponsoring legislation to repeal the SAFE Act. The key to creating safer communities for our families is punishing criminals, not law-abiding citizens. "Repeal the SAFE Act, punish violent criminals, and leave law-abiding citizens alone!"
