

People ask Ken Blankenbush,
“How do we fix our economy?”

His reply –

“Invest in Agriculture, for a start.”

Family farmers are job creators, plain and simple.

Ken Blankenbush knows that agriculture is serious business, and economists believe it plays a critical role in a healthy, recovering economy. Here, it's a significant pillar in our local economy.

Ken Blankenbush secured a total of $21.6 million for programs that help New York's family farmers.

- He even saved and improved our very own Northern New York Agricultural Development Program with a $500,000 state investment.
- He increased New York's agricultural investment by $4.3 million.

A strong New York agricultural economy needs bright young minds!
