Assemblyman Josh Jensen has a plan to end the migrant crisis

More than 110,000 migrants have crossed the southern border and come to New York

Monroe County issues state of emergency amid influx of migrants in NY

To fight the migrant crisis, Josh voted against $1 billion in state funding to pay for migrant relocation services in New York City and has called on the governor and legislative leaders to act on a three-part approach.

1. Registration and Background Checks

A proposal that requires the state to register and conduct background checks on every migrant. After a string of violent crimes committed by migrants, this is critically important.

2. Repeal Sanctuary City Policy

Demand an end to this policy and require the state to partner with federal immigration officials to enforce the law

3. Stop "Right to Shelter"

New York City's failed Right to Shelter policy forces taxpayers to spend billions supporting migrants arriving here. This proposal would restore common sense and prevent New York City from sending migrants to Monroe County.
