THE BRENTWOOD COMMUNITY STANDS TOGETHER IN OPPOSITION TO A DISRUPTIVE NEW WASTE FACILITY

Omni Recycling, one of Long Island's biggest waste processing companies, has applied for an expanded waste transfer station at 80 Emjay Blvd. in Brentwood. The proposed facility would handle 2,300 tons daily of construction and demolition debris and solid waste, calling for around 800 truck trips daily from 6 a.m. to 8 p.m., six days a week. The trash would then be sent off to dumping grounds by train.

Some residents have noted that the increased amount of traffic—30 to 32 trucks an hour, according to estimations—would destroy the neighborhood's roads and create noise and air pollution for the 1.5 million people living along the train tracks where the trash would be transported.

Some worry the proposed facility would create long-term environmental and health concerns, especially in the wake of the 2014 illegal dumping incident in Roberto Clemente Park, which took years to mitigate.

Further, in November 2021, the Brentwood Board of Education unanimously passed a resolution rejecting Omni Recycling's construction proposal to protect the health and safety of Brentwood residents.
