ARMS

Strong Communities. Safe Neighborhoods.

Ed knows criminal justice reform needs to be balanced. He has compassion for crime victims. He knows the most important role state government plays is to promote public safety.

Defund The Police? No Way.

This year, Ed voted to allocate $227 million for the New York State Police to investigate the most serious crimes, including homicides, sex crimes, gang activity, and narcotics trafficking. He authorized over half a billion dollars to support patrol activities across the state. (A.9500-C)

Protecting Police Officers

Ed knows our police are being targeted. That's why he supports legislation that would make attacks on police officers a hate crime. (A.6169)

Promoting Transparency

Ed believes it's critical to build trust between New Yorkers and police officers. That's why he supported bipartisan legislation requiring New York State Police officers to wear body cameras and law enforcement agencies to publish demographic data about interactions between police officers and citizens. (A.8674-A, A.10609)
