Notable New York Suffragists

Susan B. Anthony (1820–1906)

Anthony was a leading suffragist, as well as an advocate for education reform and the abolition of slavery. She was arrested in 1872 and stood trial for attempting to vote in the presidential election. Her penalty was to pay a $100 fine, which she refused to pay.

Elizabeth Cady Stanton (1815-1902)

A gifted leader and skilled writer, Stanton authored the 1848 "Declaration of Sentiments," which was signed by the attendees of the Seneca Falls Convention, declaring "all men and women are created equal."

Sojourner Truth (1797-1883)

Born into slavery, Truth escaped and became a forceful speaker for women's suffrage and abolition. She is best known for her "Ain't I a Woman" speech at the 1851 Woman's Rights Convention in Akron, Ohio.

Carrie Chapman Catt (1859-1947)

With Anthony, Catt reorganized the National American Woman Suffrage Association in 1890 and called for the formation of a League of Women Voters in 1919. Catt gave a forceful speech to the U.S. Congress in 1917 in her push for women's suffrage.

Sarah J. Tompkins Garnet (1831-1911)

Garnet was the first African-American woman to found a suffrage organization and was also the first African-American female principal in the New York City public school system.
