IN OUR NEIGHBORHOOD

Seawright Presses for Integrated Ferry Fare Collection with No-Fee Transfer

This week, Assembly Member Rebecca A. Seawright along with dozens of other elected officials wrote to the Metropolitan Transportation Authority's Acting Chairman Fernando Ferrer and New York City Economic Development Corporation's President and CEO James Patchett to request an integrated Metropolitan Transportation Authority (MTA) fare system and no-fee transfer, starting within the first year of ferry service, to MTA buses and subways for all ferry passengers on the New York City Economic Development Corporation's (EDC) Ferry to be operated by Hornblower Cruises, serving Manhattan, the Bronx, Queens, and Brooklyn.

Roosevelt Island exemplifies the critical need behind the request and is served by the Q102 bus, F train and Roosevelt Island Operating Corporation (RIO) operated tram service, seamlessly integrated with the MTA fare system and no-fee transfers. With EDC's projected 4.6 million trips per year, the ferry will relieve the crowded neighboring transit options and forge critical connections for the city's waterfront communities. A no-fee transfer for all passengers would best reflect the Mayor's goal of "providing affordable and convenient transit for communities with limited transportation options; supporting growing neighborhoods; and increasing the resiliency and redundancy of our city's transportation network."

Updates from NYCHA's Intergovernmental Conference on February 8, 2017

New York City Housing Authority is federally funded and the Congress will heavily impact Intergovernmental Affairs. Major milestones in the past year include a secured Senate legislative language and bipartisan House support for capital funding targeted to public health concerns for residents, and a successfully negotiated amendment of income limit rule, a bill that moved through Congress on rent increases and eviction. Housing and Urban Development (HUD) sets the cap income, which determines eligibility for assisted housing programs. HUD is currently working on a revision of their small metropolitan area Fair Market Rent Rule to exempt NYC.

New HUD Regulations consist of smoke-free rules, lead-based paint rules, and a WIFI initiative.

With the 115th Congress in session, new policy proposals such as subsidy time limits, gun policy, pet policy, demolition, income caps, and additional work/community service requirements are likely to resurface.

2017's focus will be:

- To protect the funding and structure of HUD programs
- Increase the funding to impact resident public health

New York State Assembly Women's Legislative Caucus Pays Homage to Elizabeth Cady Stanton's Address to the Legislature of New York in 1854

On February 14 and 15, 1854 in Albany, Elizabeth Cady Stanton attempted to address the NYS Legislature on the topic of suffrage. After being denied, she produced 50,000 copies of the speech, and returned the following week to distribute them to all of the male legislators. This week, Assembly Member Seawright joined her female colleagues in passing a resolution to recognize Women's Public Address Day to honor the history, 163 years to the day, that Elizabeth Cady Stanton stood up for women and tried to deliver her address. Seawright is honored to stand where the trailblazers before her stood to fight for equality, especially in 2017 which marks the 100th anniversary of women's suffrage in New York State.

Watch Assembly Member Seawright and her colleagues of the Legislative Women's Caucus take turns reading from Cady Stanton's address.

Riders Alliance Press Conference

The Riders Alliance called on Governor Cuomo to reverse his proposal to cut $65 million of promised funding to the MTA. Originally, Governor Cuomo promised to fully reimburse the MTA with missing funds every year as far back as 2011.

However, this year he proposed to return only $244 million, which would leave the MTA with a $65 million gap. Taking away promised funding from transit riders has caused delays to triple in just four years.

Governor Cuomo's proposal to break his longstanding promise to transit riders deprives the MTA of much needed funds for an effective and reliable NYC transit system. The money is needed to run more subways and buses to accommodate New York's growing population.

2017-2018 Joint Legislative Budget Hearing on Elementary and Secondary Education

As a member of the Assembly Education Committee, Rebecca Seawright, along with Ranking Democratic Member of the Finance Committee, Liz Krueger, participated in the Joint Legislative Public Hearing on the 2017-2018 Executive Budget Proposal for Elementary & Secondary Education. This was the tenth hearing in a series of 13 for the Executive Budget.

New York State Education Department Commissioner MaryEllen Elia and New York City Education Department Chancellor Carmen Fariña provided testimony.

“I commend Chancellor Farina on the program initiated to organize middle school students to visit colleges and to involve college students in a more sustained effort to help middle school students in this kind of early orientation,” Seawright said. “As the parent of two public school students, both of whom received a first class education at a school you once led, PS 6, we know it is never too early to introduce the dream of a college education to a young mind. This year’s budget must adequately address the need for these kinds of early programs that can have a positive impact on youngsters, particularly from families without parents who are college graduates.”

Also among those who testified were Michael Mulgrew, President, and Cassie Prugh, Assistant to President, United Federation of Teachers; and Andrew Pallotta, Executive Vice President, and Chris Black, Legislative Director, New York State United Teachers.

Testimony was also provided by members of the Conference of the Big Five School Districts: Dr. Edwin Quezada, Superintendent, Yonkers Public Schools; Dr. Kriner Cash, Superintendent, Buffalo School District; Barbara Deane-Williams, Superintendent, Rochester School District; Jaime Alicea, Superintendent, Syracuse School District; and Bruce Karam, Superintendent, Utica School District.

In addition, testimony was also given by Jasmine Gripper, Legislative Director, Alliance for Quality Education; Robert Lowry, Deputy Ddirector, New York State Council of School Superintendents; Mark Cannizzaro, Executive Vice President, Council of School Supervisors and Administrators; and Cynthia Gallagher, Director, Government Relations, School Administrators Association of New York State.

Judiciary Committee Update

Seawright Reintroduces Jury Duty Opt-Out Bill for Seniors

Assembly Member Seawright has reintroduced her Jury Duty Opt-Out bill, A2347. The bill would extend at a state level the same opt out available to individuals 70 years of age and older selected for federal jury service.

Currently, New York excuses jurors who provide a note from a doctor stating that their disability prevents them from serving jury duty, but this imposes a daunting and sometimes expensive burden on seniors and does not apply to many for whom jury service is possible but challenging. Assembly Member Seawright continues to hear from older constituents who are not disabled but for whom travel is difficult.

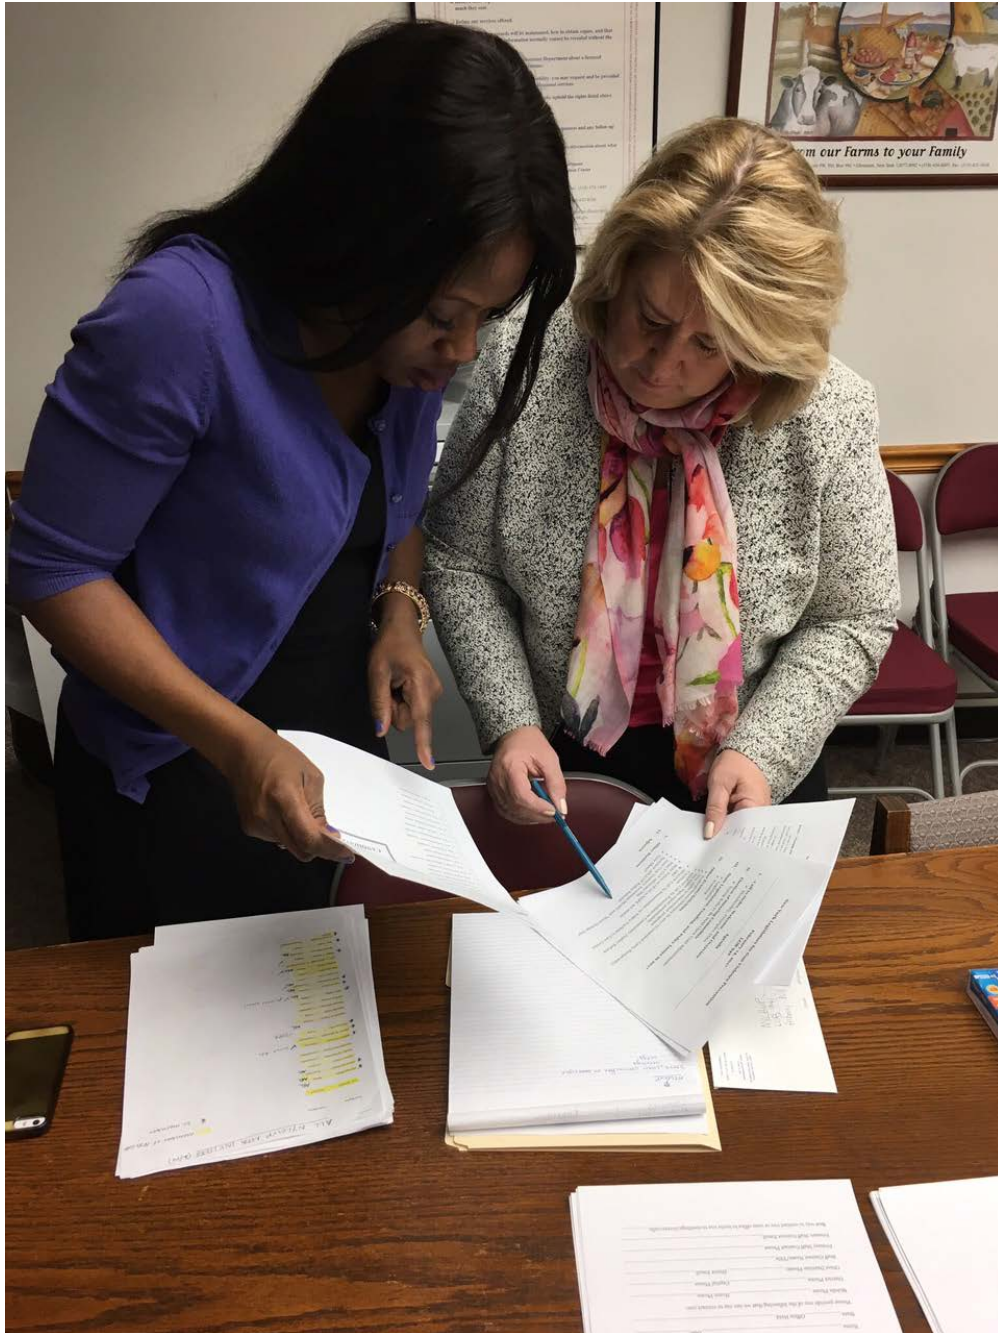

This legislation will be introduced 20 years after 27 previous exemptions and disqualifications for jury duty in New York State were repealed. The majority of the previous exemptions and disqualifications applied largely to doctors and lawyers; such white collar exceptions will not be included in the Assembly Member's bill.

Assembly Member Rebecca A. Seawright's legislation would simplify the process of opting out for New York's vulnerable senior population. Seawright feels that seniors should be allowed to retire from jury service.

- Eliminating the tax cap to adjust tax levy limit

- Investing in SUNY and CUNY
- Expanding afterschool programs
- Increased state funding to community colleges
- More support for students with disabilities

Seawright Supports Funding for the LGBT Health and Human Services Initiative in the FY2018 State Budget

Assembly Member Rebecca A. Seawright signed onto a budget letter to Assembly Speaker Heastie in support of increased funding for the LGBT Health and Human Services Initiative from its current level in the FY2018 State budget. Lesbian, Gay, Bisexual and Transgender communities in New York continue to face higher rates of negative health outcomes as compared to heterosexuals, and more barriers to accessing healthcare. LGBT New Yorkers face healthcare providers with no knowledge of LGBT-specific health issues, lack financial resources to pay for healthcare, and have inadequate insurance coverage. New York State Department of Health AIDS Institute seeks to eliminate disparities in healthcare and human services access by increasing the availability and quality of services for the underserved LGBT population. These services are coordinated through the New York State LGBT Health and Human Services Network. Services for LGBT New Yorkers have been cut by approximately $3.1 million over the last eight years. Funding for this initiative has proven to cut healthcare costs by $27 for every $1 invested. Seawright is proud to stand up for the LGBT community to restore this funding that is critically needed to increase employment opportunities, and improve access to healthcare for all LGBT New Yorkers as well as close the gap for LGBT people of color who are at higher risk for negative health outcomes.

Support of Services & Advocacy for LGBT Elders (SAGE) and SAGE Vets Program

Assembly Member Seawright continues her support for the Support of Services & Advocacy for LGBT Elders (SAGE) by signing onto a budget letter to Speaker Heastie to secure $100,000 in funding for state fiscal year 2017-18 for sage to continue its important work on behalf of LGBT older veterans. New York State is home to approximately one million men and women who served their country in the Armed Forces. A shocking 720,000 veteran are not receiving their healthcare benefits from the VA. For LGBT Vets, especially those over the age of 60, there are additional barriers, including serving in the military when discrimination against LGBT was a matter of official government policy. New York State and New York City are among the top ten states and cities with the highest concentrations of gay and lesbian vets. SAGE is the nation's first and only organization dedicated to improving the lives of LGBT older adults. In the past year, SAGE staff have traveled across the State and trained over 500 veterans and caregivers at senior centers, nursing homes, veterans' services providers, community boards, networking events and other organizations. The SAGEVets reached over 5,000 veterans and individuals at events, with information and referrals given to over 260 veterans. Seawright is proud to continue her support for the critical State budget funding to allow SAGE to reach older LGBT veterans and connect them to the services they so desperately need in the face of income insecurity and quality of life challenges that come with aging as an LGBT New Yorker.

Guest Editorial:

Education in the Age of Trump

By Rebecca A. Seawright, Assemblymember, NYS

In the last Education Update, I wrote about the legislation I introduced in the Assembly that would allow persons to opt-out of state jury service based solely on age without the burden of traveling to the courthouse to make the application, similar to the federal court system. Many seniors who are not disabled still have difficulty traveling to courthouses in order to make the application for excusal. We will continue to fight this legislative session to expand senior citizen rights. Now, after the presidential elections, we are faced with many challenges to build on the progress made, and even more worrisome – what we need to do to prevent our nation from going backwards. As the new administration takes office, we are left in the dark on what the future holds for our country's education system when it comes to education policies, funding and the support needed to ensure that our nation remains competitive. There are five key questions that should concern all those who are committed to ensuring opportunities for quality education.

Will President-Elect Trump's nominee for Secretary of Education Betsy DeVos work to strengthen support for public education or seek to dismantle the U.S. Department of Education and privatize our education system?

Will the new administration safeguard and enhance funding for research, particularly for science, engineering, and health, as well as support for workforce development, early childhood education, and teacher training programs of proven value?

Will college affordability be addressed at this crucial time when families across the country are hurting in the wake of high tuitions, mounting attendance costs, and increasing reliance on student loans, or will the nation move towards creating a permanent generation of debtors?

Will high school and college students have greater access to paid and meaningful fellowships and internships that allow them to participate in our nation's economy and gain real-life work experience?

What protections will be offered to ensure full funding for Federal Pell Grants, College Work-Study Programs and loan forgiveness programs in areas of key shortages: teaching in the STEM (science, technology, engineering, and math) disciplines, special education, and nursing?

These are some of the questions that must be asked at confirmation hearings for the new Secretary of Education and the Federal Director of Office of Management and Budget. In addition to reviewing the background and qualifications of every nominee, we must hold them accountable to elaborate on the positions that the Trump administration will pursue with respect to the lifeblood of our democracy – the federal funding and support needed for public and higher education to supplement the ongoing responsibilities of individual states.

This year in the State of New York, a budget was passed that marks the largest investment in our education system so far: a total of $24.7 billion, increasing education aid by $1.47 billion, fully eliminating the Gap Elimination Adjustment (GEA), including $175 million to transform struggling and high-needs schools, as well as SUNY/CUNY tuition freeze and increased capital funding. However, there is still much more to do. Our state must close the carried interest loophole at the state level that could generate up to $5.2 billion a year, increase investment in the operating budgets of CUNY and SUNY (instead of relying on tuition), expand Technology and Career and Technical Education (CTE) Programs, continue to support Universal Pre-K, and pass the Dream Act to include academically eligible undocumented students. We must, in summary, do our part here in New York, while working to ensure that federal officials do not shirk their responsibilities. #

Plan to House Commuting Students at Cornell Tech Will Crowd F Train: Locals

Assembly Member Seawright attended a Cornell Tech meeting on January 31, 2016 with school officials to discuss the impact of the construction of the campus on Roosevelt Island. Residents are concerned about overcrowding and the impact of an influx of commuters to the Island. The plan for Cornell Tech includes one residential building, comprised of 352 apartments total, 66 units will be set aside for medical students. The lease includes a provision to allow "university-related persons without restriction on whether or not such person is involved with the overall project."

"I invite the community to submit questions to my office so that we can make sure they are answered at the upcoming Town Hall prior to the opening of the campus this summer," Seawright said.

ARE YOU ELIGIBLE FOR EITC? GET IT, AND GET IT RIGHT

If you worked last year and your income is less than $53,505, check out your eligibility for EITC. EITC can mean up to a $6,269 refund when you file a return and have qualifying children. Workers with no qualifying children could be eligible for a smaller credit, up to 506 dollars. On average, EITC adds 24 hundred dollars to refunds.

EITC is complex. It varies by income, family size and your filing status. To be eligible, you must have earned income or certain disability income. This means you must have income from working for someone or working for yourself.

Find out if you are eligible using the EITC Assistant; it's available in both English and Spanish. The Assistant helps you:

- find your filing status,
- find out if you have a qualifying child or children,
- verify if you are eligible for EITC, and
- estimate the amount of your credit.

Let the Assistant help you get it and get it right. Visit www.irs.gov/eitc to find the Assistant.

Also, if you make less than $54,000, you qualify for free tax return preparation through volunteer sites. IRS-certified volunteers prepare your tax return and find out if you qualify for EITC and other refundable credits. Find a location for free tax return preparation near you at irs.gov; search VITA, or locate a volunteer site through our 311 number.

Make sure you get the right amount of credit due you. If you have someone prepare your return, bring the following to your preparer:

- A valid driver's license or other photo id card
- Social security cards, a social security number verification letter for all persons listed on the return
- Birth dates for all persons listed on return
- All income statements: Forms W-2 and 1099, Social Security, unemployment, and other statements, such as pensions, stocks, interest and any documents showing taxes withheld. If you run a business or farm, records of all income earned.
- All records of expenses, such as tuition, mortgage interest or real estate taxes. And, if you run a business or farm, records of all related expenses.
- Copies of last year's state and federal tax returns, if you have
- Bank routing numbers and account numbers to direct deposit any refund
- Dependent child care information: name and address of who you paid and either the caretaker's SSN or other tax identification number
- If you purchased coverage through the Health Insurance Marketplace, Form 1095-A, Health Insurance Marketplace Statement.
- Both spouses to sign forms to e-file (electronically file) a joint tax return

Here are some tax credits that may save you money:

- the Empire State Child Credit, a refundable tax credit worth up to $330 per child for ages 4-16;
- the Child and Dependent Care Credit, a tax credit based on a sliding income scale for working parents who pay for child care or those who live with a spouse or dependent who is physically or mentally incapable of self-care;
- the federal Child Tax Credit, a non-refundable tax credit of up to $1,000 per child under the age of 17, or the refundable Additional Child Tax Credit; and
- the Real Property Tax Credit, a refundable tax credit worth up to $375 if at least one member of your household is 65 or older, or up to $75 if all members of your household are under 65.

New York City residents are also eligible for the New York City School Tax Credit, a refundable tax credit of up to $125 for qualifying taxpayers. Further, city residents can receive a credit of up to $500 with the New York City Enhanced Real Property Tax Credit.

Additionally, the Earned Income Tax Credit (EITC) helps workers earning a low or moderate income reduce their taxes and may result in a refund. To qualify for the New York State and federal EITC, you must:

- have worked full or part time at some point during the calendar year;
- be raising "qualified" children at home;
- have income below $39,296 ($44,846 if married) with one child;
- have income below $44,648 ($50,198 if married) with two children;
- have income below $47,955 ($53,505 if married) with three or more children; or
- be a worker between the ages of 25 and 65, earning less than $14,880 ($20,430 if married) with no children.

To be eligible for the New York City EITC, in addition to the above requirements, you must be a full- or part-year resident of New York City, claim the federal Earned Income Tax Credit and file a New York State income tax return.

Visit tax.ny.gov for more information on these tax credits.

Community Planning Toolkit

The Citizen Corps Community Planning Toolkit will help communities become more resilient through a process of identifying existing networks, building new connections, and increasing their capacity to organize resources.

The Toolkit offers information about planning for hazards, specific guidance for community planning, a plan template for communities to develop their own emergency plan, as well as many real examples of successful planning efforts. This tool is designed for a group process and allows communities to define themselves. Successful planning can be done by housing developments, congregations, as well as neighborhoods. ## AFTER SCHOOL

This free, 5-week program (2 hours per week) for existing after-school groups offers students a crash course in the mechanics of riding a bike, the rules of the road, best practices for riding in a group and on the street, and—of course—the joy and freedom of biking.

SUMMER CAMP

Same as above; this free program for existing summer camp groups lasts 6 weeks (2 hours per week).
