

SAVE THE BURDETT BIRTH CENTER, ACCESS TO CARE SHOULD BE GUARANTEED FOR ALL

The Burdett Birth Center in Troy is under threat—if it were to close, Rensselaer County would be without a birthing center. See inside for more information on why the Burdett Birth Center is important for our families and children, and why we cannot allow it to be closed down.

“I fully support the fight against the closure of the Burdett Birth Center. Access to care should be guaranteed for all residents throughout our region. I am proud to have joined many parents, health care professionals and elected officials over the past few months to lend my voice and strong opposition to the closure plan at multiple public forums. The fight is not over.”
- Assemblyman Scott Bendett

Closure of the Burdett Birth Center would significantly restrict access to care for families throughout our communities, especially those facing economic or logistical challenges. We must continue the fight to keep the Burdett Birth Center open so:

- Our next generation can be born in a safe manner in a safe environment
- Mothers and families are not forced to go to great lengths and distances to receive proper medical care
