JOHN HAS A PLAN TO KEEP OUR WATER SAFE AND CLEAN

ASSEMBLYMAN  JOHN
LEMONDES

CENTRAL NEW YORK'S WATERWAYS ARE WORTH PROTECTING

From the Owasco River in Auburn to Pratts Falls in Pompey, our region is home to countless waterways that are vital for drinking water, economic development and recreational activities. As a born-and-raised Central New Yorker, I know firsthand the importance of protecting and preserving these natural resources. That's why I've worked hard as your voice in Albany to ensure everyone in our community has access to clean and safe water.

To Provide Clean Water To Our Community, I've Supported Policies That Would:

Strengthen and protect our drinking water by lowering the allowable levels of two common PFAS "forever chemicals" and setting new limits for three additional PFAS chemicals.¹

Ban dumping bilge water into state waters from boats, marinas or moors.²

Stood against^{5,6} a proposal³ to incentivize the installation of floating solar panels on our waterways, an initiative that experts say would negatively affect the environment.⁴
